

WARTER is a parish, township and small village, 3 miles north-east from Nunburnholme station on the York and Market Weighton branch of the North Eastern railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ east from Pocklington and 18 north from York, in the Howdenshire division of the Riding, Wilton Beacon division of Harthill wapentake, Wilton Beacon petty sessional division, Pocklington union and county court district, rural deanery of Harthill, archdeaconry of the East Riding and diocese of York. The church of St. James, rebuilt in 1862 by Lord Muncaster, is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower with spire containing 3 bells: there are several memorial windows to Gamel Augustus, 4th baron Muncaster, d. 13 June, 1862, placed by various members of his family: the church affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £100, in the gift of Charles Henry Wilson esq. M.P. and held since 1894 by the Rev. William Winning, of Trinity College, Dublin, who is also vicar of and resides at Kilwick Percy. The tithes, amounting to £500, is impropriated. There is a Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapel, and in the village are several springs. Here was once an Augustinian priory, founded in 1132 by Geoffrey Fitz-Payne, and dedicated to St. James; at its dissolution there were ten canons and revenues estimated at £143; the site and buildings were subsequently granted to the Earl of Rutland, from whom it passed to the Stapletons, and from them by marriage to Sir William Pennington
